

*wanted: volunteers for an international virtual scrum team
Communication and PR*

Maxim Nyansa IT solutions is an NGO in Ghana with the mission to create career opportunities for young people in Africa, using information technology. "Climbing the right tree" is its support foundation based in the Netherlands. Since 2016 we have been launching training programs for young IT professionals and learning transformation projects for schools in Ghana.

The vast majority of our work is done by passionate volunteers, mostly highly educated professionals in IT and other domains from various countries.

As we are rapidly scaling up our work, we are currently creating a team of about 8 volunteers that will take charge of our communications and public relations. The team will be working virtually most of the time, and will meet occasionally in our offices in Veenendaal, the Netherlands, and Accra, Ghana, using videoconferencing for a good Dutch-Ghanaian collaboration.

Work will include social media campaigns, the producing of communication materials like newsletters and brochures, maintaining our CRM, contact with the media, presenting us at conferences etc.

We are looking for:

- Good organizational and communication skills
- Good computer skills
- Graphic/ front end designer competences
- Fluent in English
- Open to work with people from various cultures
- Available for at least 8 hours per month

We are offering:

- A unique experience to work in an inspiring international team with other professionals
- The opportunity to have an impact in society, as you help to solve youth unemployment in West-Africa
- For Dutch team members: travel opportunities to our training center and projects in Ghana
- For Ghanaian team members: free vouchers for our Maxim Nyansa training programs and EXIN exams.

- Reimbursement of travel and data bundle costs.
